

Monthly Report April 2013

Kentucky Dept. for Libraries & Archives

Serving Kentucky's Need to Know

Special District Forms Due

Directors will submit a budget to the fiscal court by June 1st. Directors of taxing districts will also submit a UFIR (Uniform Financial Information Report) for the 2011-2012 FY to the Dept. of Local Government (DLG) by May 1st each year. Forms can be downloaded from the DLG website at http://dlg.ky.gov/downloads.htm#special_districts.

Impact of House Bill 1

HB1 will result in many changes for libraries in the ways they report information and interact with fiscal courts. These changes will begin occurring in January 2014. The Department for Local Government, the State Auditor's Office, KDLA, and many state professional organizations are working together to understand and implement these changes. Library boards and directors will need to be watching as guidance and information are released over the coming months.

National Library Legislative Day

May 7th and 8th is National Library Legislative Day. A delegation of Kentucky librarians will be traveling to D.C. to represent Kentucky libraries. They will make sure legislators understand key issues facing libraries today. Chief among these will be requesting continued funding of IMLS, the primary source of federal support for libraries and museums, and LSTA funding, used by KDLA to fund many services, including: the Talking Book Library, the continuing education program, interlibrary loans, and technology and programming grants.

SOKY Book Fest

The 15th annual Southern Kentucky Book Fest is a fundraiser for the promotion of literacy in our communities. The 2013 Book Fest will be held on Saturday, April 20th from 9:00 am to 3:00 pm. Children's Day on Friday, April 19th from 9:00 am to 2:00 pm is devoted to school children in grades K-12, librarians, and educators. The Kentucky Writer's Conference will also take place on Friday, April 19th from 9:00 am to 3:30 pm. and will feature free workshops on a variety of writing topics. For a list of events, authors attending and online registration, go to: <http://www.sokybookfest.org>.

National Library Week

Celebrate National Library Week, April 14th-20th. Tuesday is set aside as National Library Workers' Day to recognize the contributions of library staff, administrators, trustees and Friends. Wednesday is National Bookmobile Day and celebrates our bookmobiles and the dedicated library professionals who provide this valuable service to their communities every day. Thursday is Support Teen Literature Day. For promotional materials visit: <http://www.ala.org/conferenceevents/celebrationweeks/natlibraryweek>.

ALA Annual Conference

Registration is now open for the American Library Association's Annual Conference June 27-July 2, 2013 in Chicago. The conference programs, updates, conversations, and other events cover key issues such as digital content and e-books, technology in libraries, innovation, books and hundreds of authors, leadership, library advocacy, community engagement, and library marketing. There's also a wide range of networking opportunities and fun events. For registration info visit: <http://ala13.ala.org>.

April 2013 Trustee Tip of the Month Firearms in the Library

Since the passage of HB40 in 1996, Kentucky libraries have lacked the statutory authority to ban, restrict, or otherwise regulate the open or concealed carry of firearms in their facilities. Only those libraries which were part of county government held a possible exception to this prohibition, and the number of those was exceedingly small.

This prohibition was expanded and clarified in 2012 when the General Assembly passed an amendment to Kentucky Revised Statute 65.870. This change forbids most government entities, including virtually all special districts or boards, from having any policies, procedures or rules that pertain to the control of firearms.

Due to this change, boards are cautioned that they should review their policies as soon as possible to ensure they are not in violation of 65.870(3). This section, which applies to all public libraries in Kentucky, states that any covered entities shall repeal, rescind, or amend to conform, any ordinance, administrative regulation, executive order, policy, procedure, rule, or other form of executive or legislative action in violation of this section or the spirit thereof within six (6) months after July 12, 2012.

In order to be in compliance with this statute a library board cannot regulate open or concealed carry of firearms. Requirements include removing any signage prohibiting firearm carry and modifying any existing policies to comply with the law. Additionally, a holder of a concealed weapons permit cannot be required to present that permit to anyone other than a law enforcement officer – not the library director, library security or library staff.

Violation of this law is exempt from sovereign immunity; a library board in violation can be sued and be required to pay reasonable attorney costs and fees for expert witnesses.

However, if library staff or patrons feel threatened, library employees should not hesitate to take appropriate action as specified in local policy. If the staff or a member of the public feels that a reasonable threat exists, employees should have the authority to contact the director (or other supervisor) if possible – and should be empowered to contact the police if the director is unavailable and it is appropriate. The police will decide what, if anything, needs to be done about the situation and what charges, if any, should be filed.

There are several statutes in Kentucky relating to behavior in public. Kentucky has laws against “wanton endangerment” (KRS 508.060-508.070) and “terroristic threatening” (KRS 508.075-508.080). The definition of each is found in statute and may apply, depending upon the circumstances.

Library Boards may adopt a policy which contains a request to the public that they not bring deadly weapons into the library but the director, staff or board cannot enforce it and should not make those carrying firearms feel unwelcome in the library facility.
